Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 11 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very cold start to the day, largely dry and bright.

Today:
Mostly dry and very cold with plenty of sunshine and very little cloud. Occasional snow showers across the Northern Isles and later in the northeast. Breezier later in the west and continuing the very cold feel.

Tonight:
Not as cold as recent nights but still significant frost for many with dry clear conditions. However a few snow showers continuing for Grampian and strong winds in the west.

Friday:
Snow showers across northeast on Friday these may become a bit persistent for a time, elsewhere dry and clear. Strong winds in the west, gales around the coasts at times.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
During the weekend periods of cloud and snow feeding in from southwest, perhaps turning to rain later on Sunday. More outbreaks of mainly rain on Monday. Very windy at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.